Marsy's Law seeks to elevate the rights currently afforded to crime victims in Pennsylvania to the state Constitution. While the accused and convicted have numerous rights codified in the Pennsylvania Constitution, crime victims currently only have statutory protections. This creates an imbalance of justice, because victims have no recourse if their rights are violated. Marsy's Law will remedy this imbalance. Marsy's Law will likely be on the November 2019 ballot as a voter referendum in Pennsylvania.

Furthermore, we're one of the only National Association of Energy Service Companies (NAESCO) accredited companies with the ability to self-perform mechanical construction. Self-performing this work removes an entire layer of markup on the largest piece of an ESCO project.
